Read the text and choose the correct answers.

Jason Hill used to work at a bank in San Francisco. He was very good at his job and he earned quite a lot of money. The problem was that Jason was really bored. He didn't enjoy the one-hour journey to work on a crowded subway train every morning and he hated working in a busy, noisy office from 9am to 5pm every weekday. One day, Jason was on his way to work when he saw an ad in the newspaper for non-speaking parts in a movie. Later that day, he called the number in the ad. He was invited for an audition and was given a small part in the movie. He enjoyed the experience so much that he decided that he wanted to become an actor. On his 30th birthday, Jason made a life-changing decision. He decided to quit his job and study drama. In October 2006, he began his drama course at a theater school in New York. The course was difficult and there were times when he thought about dropping out, but he studied hard and finally passed the course in June 2008. Soon after that, he got his first acting job when he was given a part in a television soap opera. In December 2008, he was watching television at home when the telephone rang. It was a well-known American movie director. He asked Jason if he wanted a part in his new movie. Jason was astonished. He accepted and he is now living in California and is really enjoying his new life.
