Be going to

Be going to

To talk about general future plans,
intentions, and predictions.

Plan: We're going to see a show
tonight

Intention: I'm going to take French
next year

Prediction: Our team is going to win

To use GOING TO we follow the scheme below:

AFF: am/is/are + going to +
verb in infinitive

NEG: am/is/are + not +
going to + verb in infinitive

INT: am/is/are + subject +
going to + verb in infinitive...?

*She's going to study
for her exam.*

*She isn't (is+not)
going to play computer games.*

Is she going to get good marks?

Reading Emily's next weekend

I'm very happy about next weekend because I'm going to visit my friend Demi, we are going to do many things. We're going to go together to the cinema. I like horror movies but Demi doesn't, so we aren't going to see that kind of films. We are going to see a comedy.

After the movie we're going to eat sushi, we also want to go to the mall, Demi is going to buy sandals for summer and I'm going to buy what I need during the week. After the mall Demi is going to come to my house because we're going to have a pijama party, we're going to eat pop corn and drink soda, ah... Demi isn't going to drink soda because she doesn't like it, she's going to drink tea, her favorite drink. We're going to play cards, listen to music and watch TV. We aren't going to go to bed late, we're going to go sleep at 10 pm because we're going to go to the beach early next morning.
