Reading: A really lovely story.

We all remember their wedding, it was amazing, the music, the meal, the place and them.

Their story started when they were eight years old. She thought he was an annoying person, he just wanted to play with their friends. One day, there was an activity with all the young people, she couldn't attend, she was really sick. We were looking for her, after asking one of her friends, he knew she stayed at home. He was really worried, he wanted to see her again. When he got home he asked his mom how he could surprise her.

His mom cooked a chicken soup for his friend and went to her home. The girl was happy to see him again. Years later they finished school and started college. They used to wait every summer to spend time together. They were really good friends.

One summer he asked her to marry him, and she said "Yes". Since that they have made of their family a sweet place for their children. Do you still keep in touch with your childhood friends?
