READING

Ann was sitting in her favorite restaurant. –“Ann” –said her mother. –“He was charming. We must meet. And you must meet him!” –she said. –“What?” –said Ann. She was wearing my lucky gold earrings. Ann recalled her mother’s words. (at her cousin’s wedding the weekend before) even though she was trying to tell her mother. –“They are awful!” –she said.

At 8 o’clock Ann was still sitting at the table. She was quickly putting on her earrings. How much she wanted to stay in the restaurant. During the date, John, her boyfriend, was talking about the restaurant. When the waiter brought the first meals, John was talking about the food. Well, Ann thought at least they agreed on something:

When she got home, Ann called her mother. While she was telling her about all the silly, self-centered things John said, Silvia reassured her. –“He was just trying to impress you.” – she said.

–“Well, on top of everything, he did not like your gold earrings...” – continued Ann.

–“My gold earrings!” –shouted Silvia. –“Now listen to me, I was trying to tell you this whole time that this guy is obviously not for you!”
